

Jordan & Ricki

Ricki, born in January 1998, and Jordan, born in May 1999, are siblings of African-American, Latino, and Italian descent. They are an active and energetic. The boys love to eat—especially pizza, ice cream, and Burger King. They enjoy bikes, playing outside, Star Wars, and they have even tried yoga.

Ricki has a quiet and thoughtful side. Ricki likes school and tries hard to be a good student. Ricki has special psychological needs that require him to see a therapist.

Jordan sometimes has a way of speaking that is beyond his age and is guaranteed to make you laugh. He may be a politician in the making. Jordan enjoys school—especially recess.

Ricki and Jordan will do best in an environment where other children in the home are older or they are the only children. They will need a home that is warm and loving, with parents that are able to be firm and consistent. They are looking for parents that will play with them outside and take them to amusement parks. The boys are looking for a family that they can stay with forever.

It is still being assessed as to whether a placement together would allow each brother the individual attention that they need and crave. If they are not living together, it will be important for them to be able to visit often.
